

Syed Uddin

I am a former Langdon Park School student and currently the Head of Operations at a youth led charity of which I was a founding member. I oversee projects that aim to support and empower local young people and their families. I am keen to offer my experience and knowledge to support the growth and development of future generations of young people.